The companies have no guarantee that the goods insured against are on the premises at the time of the fire, and, generally speaking, have no means of discovering the truth subsequently. Thetemptation to a man when in difficulties to get rid of them by a big fire, is immense, and has often proved too much for Europeans; how —Shanghai Mervury Correspondent. News reached us on the morning of the 5th instant of a piratical attack upon a large native junk, just between this port and Weachow. It seems that a large Tientsin junk, laden with a general cargo, and on the way from Shanghai to Canton, was maylaid by three pirate junks and nearly all the valuable cargo pillaged. Shots were exchanged between the pirate sessels and their prey, and the latter received a shot between wind and water which necessitated her running into a small cove or bay about 70 miles above this port, and there the vessel was beached. The loss sustained by the unfortunate vessel consists of 4 of her crew being killed, and five or six men wounded, while that of the pirates is not known. The Earl of Ormonde, Lord Deputy, reported that the Superior Courts could be held inside the church, whilst the prebendal and canonry houses would form suitable residences for the judges and lawyers. The Archbishop of Dublin naturally remonstrated but he was told that the Cathedral of Christ Church, which Henry VIII. had founded, was quite enough for the wants of the city or the diocese. And the Courts would appear to have been held in St. Patrick's until the year 1553, when King Philip and Queen Mary addressed a letter to Sir Thomas Cuench, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, desiring him "for the glory of God, and the advancement of his service and true words, to restore the cathedral church and chapter of St. Patrick to its pristine state."
